

A case study

- Case study: Is China a Neo-Mercantilist Nation?
- 3 questions:
 - Do you think that China is pursuing an economic policy that can be characterized as neo-Mercantilism? Why or why not?
 - What incentives does China have to open its markets to foreign products? Why might China resist such a move?
 - Is there any evidence that China is pursuing an import substitution policy? How would this type of policy benefit the country?
 - What should the other countries do about this?