Suggested Topics for SPEAKING TEST. [ Level A1.2]

There are two parts in the speaking test:

Speaking part 1: Individual turns.

Short questions and answers between the candidate and the examiner.

Speaking part 2: Role Plays

Candidates have to choose partners, take roles, and create a role play for each situation (topic) described below. Each one will require the two candidates to ask for specific information and then respond to the questions. When you have finished, exchange roles and create new dialogs for each situation.

PART 1. INDIVIDUAL TURNS

The test begins with a general conversation led by the interlocutor, who asks the candidates questions about familiar topics given below:

1. Self- introduction
  - 1.1. Hometown
  - 1.2. School / Work
  - 1.3. Family; Love; Friendship
  - 1.4. Personality
2. Daily activities & Leisure activities
3. Likes & dislikes
  - 3.1. Fields of study
  - 3.2. Books / music / sports / films / TV programmes / means of communications
  - 3.3. Food / drink / clothes / technological devices
  - 3.4. Public holiday / means of transport / ways of travelling / season
4. Describing things & people
  - 4.1. Describing a member in your family and his (her) personality
  - 4.2. Describing a thing you have that is very important to you.
  - 4.3. Describing a thing that you have never been able to do.
  - 4.4. Describing something you prefer doing by yourself.
  - 4.5. Describing something you often forget to do
  - 4.6. Describing a thing / an event that makes you the happiest.
  - 4.7. Describing your hometown, your house, your dormitory.
5. Future plans

  - 5.2. Talking about the kind of family you would like to have in the future.
  - 5.3. Talking about the kind of love partner you would like to have in the future.
  - 5.4. Your plans for the future.

PART 2. ROLE PLAYS.

Candidates have to choose partners, take roles, and create a role play for each situation (topic) described below. Each one will require the two candidates to ask for specific information and then respond to the questions. When you have finished, exchange roles and create new dialogs for each situation.

1. Shopping.

The two candidates take roles to be a shop assistant and a customer to buy something or make a complaint about shopping problems. The two candidates have to create a dialog in which such details as the price, the quantity, the delivery information, the after-sales service, the functionality, etc. are asked, or complaints are made and then responded to appropriately.

2. Job interview.

the two candidates are going to role-play an interview. One is the interviewer and the other is the interviewee, using the résumé and the letter of application given by the examiner. Try to ask questions that would probably be asked by the actual employer you are applying to.

3. Making, accepting and declining invitations.

The two candidates take roles. One invites the other to do something or go somewhere interesting. The other responding may accept immediately and gladly, or hesitate before accepting or declining, or decline regretfully.

4. Asking for & giving directions.

The two candidates take roles. One asks for directions and the other gives directions, using the map given by the examiner. When you finish, change roles, and try to create a new dialog.

5. Exchanging information & making arrangements.

5.1. Weekend activities.

- [a] The two candidates take roles to ask and tell how you spent last weekend.
- [b] The two candidates take roles to ask and tell how you are going to spend next weekend.

5.2. Hotel room booking.

You are looking for somewhere to stay tonight. Go to the receptionist desk at ABC Hotel, find out if they have any vacant rooms, how much they cost, and check in if you decide you like the hotel. The receptionist at ABC Hotel uses the hotel information to answer your enquiry.

5.3. Meeting arrangement.

You need to arrange a meeting with your partner. Phone him/her to fix a time and a place for meeting. You and your partner use your diary for next week to set up the meeting.
